

CONDITIONALS

Timeframe	Hypothesis	Result
[0) always	When it rains,	I take an umbrella.]
1) FUTURE	If it rains tomorrow, When I am a big boy, As soon as you arrive, If I learn something bad about him, If he behaves well, If it is the weekend, If she comes tomorrow, Should any problem arise,	I will take an umbrella. I will have a big fast car. you will be shown where to park. I will not go on a 2-week holiday with him. I will not do it. I will sleep. I will be there. please feel free to contact me.
2) PRESENT	If it rained , If I was a big boy, If I knew that, If he behaved well, If it was the weekend, If she came, Supposing she came,	I would take an umbrella. I would have a big fast car. I would not go there. I would not do it. I would still be asleep. I would be there. what would you do?

REGRETS about the present:

I wish I had more time.

(because then I could watch hockey.)

I wish I were/was in Hawaii right now.

BUT!!! For other verbs you must use COULD (for impossibility) or WOULD (for irritation)

I wish I could speak Japanese.

I wish I could spend my holiday on the moon.

I wish I could spend today at home.

I wish Adrian would learn a new joke.

I wish my mother-in-law would move to Turkey.

I wish the restaurant in my street would close.

3) PAST

If it had rained,

If I had ever been a big boy,

If I had known that,

If he had behaved well,

If it had been the weekend,

If she had come to Brno,

Had she come to Brno,

I would have taken an umbrella.

I would have had a big fast car.

I would not have gone there.

I would not have done it.

I would have slept / I would have stayed in bed.

I would have been there to greet her.

I would have been there to greet her.

I wish it had rained.

(because then I would have got clean.)

I wish it hadn't rained.

I wish I had bought something for breakfast.

I wish I had studied.

(because then I wouldn't have failed my test.)

I wish I had slept more.

I wish I hadn't drunk so much,

(because then I would have had more energy.)